

I understand that you are considering changing Indiana's Telephone Privacy law, please do not do that. Before Indiana had a Telephone Privacy Law I had a company that was calling me every fifteen minutes every day every week, because I refused to buy their product. I had complained to the police and to the phone company and that would only stop it for two or three months then it would start again. After Indiana's Telephone Privacy law went into effect I have had no harassing phone calls.

Thank you,
